Notes on Language (Barony)

From the census of 1851 onwards information was sought on those who spoke Irish only and those bi-lingual. However the presentation of language data changes from one census to the next between 1851 and 1871 but thereafter remains the same (1871-1891).

Notes on Baronies of Ireland 1821-1891

Baronies are sub-division of counties their administrative boundaries being fixed by the Act 6 Geo. IV., c 99. Their origins pre-date this act, they were used in the assessments of local taxation under the Grand Juries. Over time many were split into smaller units and a few were amalgamated. Townlands and parishes - smaller units - were detached from one barony and allocated to an adjoining one at various intervals. This the size of many baronies changed, albeit not substantially. Furthermore, reclamation of sea and loughs expanded the land mass of Ireland, consequently between 1851 and 1861 Ireland increased its size by 9,433 acres. The census Commissioners used Barony units for organising the census data from 1821 to 1891. These notes are to guide the user through these changes. From the census of 1871 to 1891 the number of subjects enumerated at this level decreased

In addition, city and large town data are also included in many of the barony tables. These are :
The list of cities and towns is as follows:

Dublin City
Kilkenny City
Drogheda Town*
Cork City
Limerick City
Waterford City

Belfast Town/City (Co. Antrim part)
 Belfast Town/City (Co. Down part)
 Carrickfergus
 Galway Town

There are particular problems with two towns, Belfast and Drogheda. Both span county boundaries. For some variables values for the whole town have been used and for other variables the values have been presented according to the county in which part of the town is located. To explain in more detail the notes below should be of help.

Town/city of Belfast

Town of Belfast spans counties Antrim and Down

1821 Population figures for the town of Belfast are available but they are included in the total barony figures in which it is located and therefore are not included in order to prevent double counting when aggregated. For users interested Belfast population statistics for 1821 and 1831 see notes on population.

1831 Only data for occupations at county level.

1841 The Belfast town data are presented in two ways:

A (i) Belfast town (part of):

(a) Knockbreda parish, (part of) } within the municipal boundary.

(b) Shankill parish, (part of) }

(ii) Belfast town (part of):

(b) Shankill parish, (part of) } without the municipal boundary.

B (i) Belfast town (part of, 1296 acres) in county Antrim.

(ii) Belfast town (part of, 576 acres) in county Down.

C Belfast town, whole (aggregating the statistics of counties Antrim and Down, area of 1872 acres).

We have used either B or C in the database as appropriate.

1851 Same as 1841

1861 Area of the town expanded to 5637 acres. Figures exclude Merchant and Royal Navy seamen.

1871 Belfast Municipal Borough, area expanded to 5991 acres.

1881 Same as 1871

1891 Same as 1871

City of Dublin/Suburbs of Dublin.

The census year of 1861 presents for the first time statistics for the suburbs of Dublin. They are :
 Castleknock suburb

Coolock suburb
 Dublin suburb
 Rathdown suburb
 Uppercross suburb

These areas were formerly part of the Baronies in County Dublin of the same name, which by 1861 were reduced in size as a consequence of a portion on the periphery of Dublin being designated Dublin suburbs.

Statistics at this level occurs for a limited number of variables, and so it is important to check. By 1871 a new survey of county Dublin had taken place. The Baronies area units were changed and Dublin suburbs had vanished being subsummed in the City of Dublin

County of the Town/Town of Drogheda

County of the Town of Drogheda has boundaries adjacent to counties Louth and Meath

1821 composed of (a) St Mary parish
 (b) St Peter parish
 (c) Ballymakenny parish (part of) remainder in the barony of

Ferrard, Louth county

1831 As 1821

Town of Drogheda

1841 composed of (a) St Mary parish (part of, area - 184 acres) remainder in the barony of Drogheda, County Meath
 (b) St Peter parish (part of, area - 288 acres) remainder in the barony of Drogheda, County Louth

The part of the parish of Ballymakenny and the rural portions of the parishes of St Mary and St Peter, which hitherto formed part of the county of the town of Drogheda are now included in the returns of the adjoining counties. A footnote indicates that the remainder of the municipal town of Drogheda is in the parish of Tullyallen, barony of Ferrard, county of Louth, though no statistical data is included for this part of the town with the rest of Drogheda Town figures.

1851 composed of (a) St Mary parish (part of, area - 184 acres) remainder in the barony of Drogheda, County Meath
 (b) St Peter parish (part of, area - 288 acres) remainder in the barony of Drogheda, County Louth
 (c) Tullyallen parish (part of, area - 25 acres) remainder in the barony of Ferrard, County Louth

1861 composed of (a) St Mary parish (part of, area - 145 acres) remainder in the barony of Drogheda, County Meath
 (b) St Peter parish (part of, area - 270 acres) remainder in the

barony of Drogheda, County Louth
(c) Tullyallen parish(part of, area - 26 acres) remainder in the barony of Ferrard, County Louth, and in the Barfony of Slane Upper, County Meath.

1871 Called County of the Town of Drogheda A new survey of County Louth and the County of the Town of Drogheda was done since the previous census, hence modification in the size of the town. Now measures 453 acres
