1998 British Social Attitudes Survey

NOTE FOR USERS
(21 January 2000)

This note provides information in brief about the survey. It accompanies the final version of the main datafile (bsa98.por). For further details about the survey, see Thomson et al (2000 forthcoming), British Social Attitudes and Young People's Social Attitudes Surveys 1998: Technical Report, London: National Centre for Social Research.

About the survey

The BSA survey was conducted by the National Centre for Social Research (formerly SCPR). Its core-funding, provided by the Gatsby Charitable Foundation, one of the Sainsbury Family Charitable Trusts, was supplemented by grants from the Robert Gavron Charitable Trust, the Nuffield Foundation, the Leverhulme Trust, the Wellcome Trust, and the Economic and Social Research Council. Various Government departments and agencies also supported modules in the 1998 survey: the Countryside Agency, the Department for Education and Employment, the Department of the Environment, Transport and the Regions, the Department of Health, the Department of Social Security and the Department of Trade and Industry.

The survey was designed to yield a representative sample of the population in Britain aged 18+. The sample of addresses was drawn from the Postcode Address File. At each address, the interviewer established how many occupied dwelling units it contained. If there were several, one was selected at random for interview (using a Kish grid and random numbers). The interviewer then established how many adults aged 18+ lived in the (selected) dwelling unit. If there were several, one adult was selected (using a similar procedure as that used for dwelling units). The unequal selection probabilities arising from these procedures are taken into account by the weighting.

The fieldwork was conducted by National Centre for Social Research. Interviews were conducted in the respondent's home, using a laptop computer. In order to increase the number of topics covered by the survey each year three versions of the questionnaire are fielded, and respondents are randomly assigned to one of the versions. All respondents answer a core set of demographic and other classificatory questions and individual modules are then carried on either one, two or all three versions. In 1998 the face-to-face interview was designed to last about one hour and was then followed by a self-completion questionnaire.

Fieldwork was carried out between April and August 1998, with a small number of interviews taking place in September. A summary of the response is as follows:

Issued addresses	6,000
Of which in scope[1]	5,323
Productive interviews	3,146	(59%)

Version B of the self-completion questionnaire included a module of questions about religion which were fielded as part of the International Social Survey Programme, of which the BSA series is a member.

The data file should be used in conjunction with the following documentation:
- Documentation of the Blaise questionnaire program (final version dated January 2000)
- Showcards (one set per questionnaire version)
- Self-completion questionnaire (one per questionnaire version)
- Address Record Forms

Weighting

The main dataset (in common with all surveys based on samples from the Postcode Address File) must be weighted to take account of differing selection probabilities. Simplifying slightly: households are selected with equal probability, but only one person in each household is interviewed. People in small households therefore have a higher probability of selection than people in large households and the weighting corrects for this.

Please note that the data must be weighted in all analysis. The file is not preweighted. Before running any analysis, please use the following SPSS command:

> weight by wtfactor

(or similar, depending on the exact syntax of your version of SPSS).

Because of the complex selection procedure involved in the 'Role of Grandparents' section of the questionnaire, there are additional weights for the analysis of this section (see the Technical Report for full details). They are as follows:

Weight var name	Group selected by weight	Unweighted sample size	Weighted sample size
WTGrchMo	Questions about grandchildren: - asked about most contact grandchild	350	284
WTGrchRa	- asked about random grandchild	715	542
WTGrpaMo	Questions about grandparents: - asked about most contact grandparent	389	242
WTGrpaRa	-asked about random grandparent	489	305
WTParGMo	Questions about children & grandparents: - asked about most contact grandparent	307	257
WRParGRa	- asked about random grandparent	467	368

[1] I.e. traceable, residential and occupied.

These weights include the effect of WTFACTOR, so WTFACTOR can be ignored if using these weights.

Incentive experiment

The 1998 BSA included an experiment into the effect of offering incentives to respondents. A random quarter of the sample were offered £5 if they completed the interview, another quarter were offered £3 and half were offered no incentive. The treatment group of respondents is given in the variable [Incentiv]. See also: Lynn, P., Thomson, K. and Brook, L. (1998) 'An experiment with incentives on the British Social Attitudes survey', Survey Methods Centre Newsletter, 18:2, 12-14.

        At present local elections are always held on a Thursday.
        Which of the statements on this card comes closest to your views about the idea of holding them over a weekend instead?
1   Local elections should be held over a weekend becau   se
        more people would be able to go and vote
2   Local elections should still be held on a Thursday
        because people have better things to do with their time

Q836   [PostVot]
        CARD
        Which of the statements on this card come   s closest to your view about voting in local elections?
1   Everyone should be allowed to vote by post in local elections because more people would use their vote 2   People should normally have to go to a polling station to vote because that is the only way we can be sure that elections are run fairly
